DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese Publication No. 04098387.

A theft-prevention ink pack device, comprising: an ink pack (7), consisting of a bag containing ink, that placed inside a case having a front board (8) on which an ink spout is formed; a spring (6) that urges the ink pack and a knife edge (43) to close in on each other and applies pressure to the ink pack; the knife edge that tears the ink pack; and an engaging structure (44,41,5a) that is engaged to support a state in which the ink pack and the knife edge are spaced apart from each other, and is disengaged when an outer force is applied (abstract); wherein: the ink pack and the knife edge close in on each other by means of a spring force of the spring when the engaging structure is disengaged so that the ink pack is torn by the knife edge, and the ink pack is pressured, resulting in the ink shooting out from the ink spout (abstract).

As concerns claim 6, a treasure safe comprising: a box main body (1) in which the theft-prevention ink pack device as claimed in claim 1 is implemented; a door (3) that opens by being rotated; a locking device (L) that locks the door and is unlocked upon opening the door; a connecting structure (L3) that connects the door to the theft-prevention ink pack device; and a disconnecting structure (5B) for disconnecting the connection made by the connecting structure when the locking device is unlocked.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japanese Publication No. 04098387.

Japanese Pub. '387 does not explicitly disclose the spring as a conical compression coil spring.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a conical compression coil spring, since such a modification is seen as an obvious design choice wherein it does not effect the operability of the invention, as compared to the spring shown in Jap. Pub. '387. Furthermore, the applicant has not indicated that such a feature is imperative to the patentable functionality of the invention.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 2, 3 and 5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. Claims 7-16 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed February 24, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The applicant argues that Japanese Pub. '387 does not disclose a spring that urges the ink pack and knife edge to close in on each other and applies pressure to the ink pack. The examiner disagrees since figure 1 discloses a spring 6, an ink pack 7 and a knife edge 43. The spring urges the knife edge towards the ink pack which results in the ink pack and knife edge closing in on each other, since the distance between the two components is decreasing. The spring also applies pressure to the ink pack, since the pressure of the spring is transmitted to 44 and 43 which is then applied to the ink pack 7. The examiner agrees with applicant's remarks concerning claim 12, however the limitations of claim 1 have been given their broadest reasonable interpretation, as such the claim does not require the knife edge to be in a stationary position.

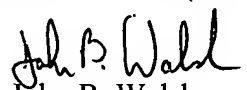

Conclusion

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to John B. Walsh whose telephone number is 571-272-7063. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Thursday from 6:30-5:00.
